

staff officers of the brigade, or the field and staff officers of said regiment.

29. A majority of the members of every volunteer company may make all regulations and by-laws for their rule and government, and may alter and change the same at pleasure, and may impose fines, and appropriate and dispose of the same when collected, as they may see proper.

30. A majority of the field and staff officers of each volunteer regiment may make all minor by-laws for the rule and government of the regiment not inconsistent with the rights and privileges of command.

31. The commanding officer of every uniformed volunteer company that shall volunteer its services to the State for one year, shall furnish a list of the members of his company to the commandant of his battalion, squadron or regimental district in which it is formed, and they shall be exempt from militia duty for four years thereafter.

32. Whenever the Governor shall issue his proclamation, a draft of one-fifth of the whole number of the militia and volunteer force of the State shall be made to serve in case of need for the term of three months within the year then next ensuing, and of the militia and volunteers who shall be draughted, there shall be at least one company furnished or taken from each battalion of artillery, one company from each battalion of infantry or riflemen, and one company from each regiment of cavalry.

33. The Governor shall order a company to be draughted from each regiment of artillery and cavalry, and each battalion of infantry and riflemen; which draught shall be made by lot from the whole number of persons comprising said battalions and regiments respectively, who are twenty-one years of age or upwards, and liable to do militia duty, but excluding therefrom such persons as may have been draughted to perform a tour of duty in any year not exceeding four years antecedent thereto, and such persons as may have volunteered to perform a tour of duty in the year for which said draught is to be made, or who may have so volunteered in any year not exceeding four years antecedent thereto, and whose offer shall have been accepted; but if a uniform company from any of said regiments or battalions shall volunteer to serve a tour of duty, and the Governor
